
GAS, GASOLINE, AND OIL ENGINE BUILDERS OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA

1907 – 541 Companies Listed

The following list of U.S. and Canadian engine builders of 1907 is taken from an early book on engines published in 1907. There is at least one error in the attached listing, and possibly more; please see last page for details. The list is reproduced exactly as it was found in the above mentioned book.

This book has been prepared exactly the same as the original except for this section and the errata section at the end. Unfortunately, the original booklet was undated and has no author name on it, so it is considered public domain. Further, the original booklet did not cite the original 1907 source document either.

ERRATA

The following are known potential errors, and have been organized alphabetically. There may be others unknown to the editor.

Under A

The correct address for Alamo Engine Co. is believed to be Hillsdale, Michigan, not Alamo, Michigan.

Under B

It should be Buffalo Gasolene Motor Co., not Buffalo Gasoline Motor Co. The firm used the older spelling Gasolene throughout its history.

Under W

It should be Waterous, not Watrous. The e is missing.

The original booklet did not specify the type of engines pertinent to this list. That is, was the original list for makers of only portable engines? Or, was the list to include manufacturers of any type of engine, including those for automobiles, trucks, electric-producing plants, and farm machinery?
